Dear friends,

It gives me immense pleasure in announcing a date for X CME to be held on Sunday, the 16th April 2017.

This CME will be unique since we are concentrating on most complex region i.e, Petrous bone, Paranasal sinuses & Neck spaces.

In view of recent technological refinement, both in the imaging and surgical aspects in managing the disease processes in these complex regions have lead to encouraging results. HRCT of these regions have explored vital information required for microscopic and endoscopic surgeries with least morbidity in both anatomical and functional aspects. Since this being growing field many requests from both radiology, ENT and maxillo-facial surgeons have stimulated us to consider the above topic.

It is equally true management of neck space pathology depends on understanding of complex radiological anatomy.

To fullfill the above needs, we have selected experts in these selected fields and I am sure you will have wonderful feast of knowledge in the forthcoming CME.

We welcome you all in large numbers and make the CME a grand success.
